

NANCY WYNNE WONDERS WHAT SOCIETY WILL DO IN LENT

With the beginning of Lent today many of the younger set will turn to the more serious side of life, as there is less time to be done in the way of gaily frolics and the knowledge of what our year brings on the other side are beginning to settle down to a quiet life, of reading, knitting, taking lessons in French, studying French and doing all those things which improve the mind. One thing which is a great charity, and which was started some time ago by the Philadelphia League girls, will probably be discontinued by the debutantes, now that Lent has come. This is the making up of little packets for the various public hospitals. Then, various sewing societies to help the Emergency Aid have been formed. Altogether they will be busy this week through the coming week, and, too, there will be small affairs, and Mrs. Scott's supper will be held on April 1, so the Lenten will not entirely stop.
